

mkdir (create a directory)

This command creates a directory, plain and simple. Use it with the option `-p` ("parents") to create a directory with some parent directories in one fell swoop. For example:

```
mkdir -p my/code/c
```

This will create the directory `c` along with its parent directories `my` and `my/code`.